ABOUT ME

I am Emmanuel Chiboy, a self-taught frontend web developer and UI designer who turns business ideas into clean, fast, and fully responsive websites. I take pride in building digital experiences that look great, load fast, and actually work for the people using them. Whether it is a brand new website from scratch or a complete redesign of an existing one, I bring the same level of care and attention to every project I take on.

PROJECTS

Ghost Portfolio

iamghost.vercel.app

Personal portfolio website built to showcase web development work and attract clients. Designed and developed end-to-end with a focus on clean visuals and smooth performance.

CampUlse

campulse-theta.vercel.app

A campus web application designed for student engagement and information sharing. Built with responsive layouts and a user-friendly multi-page structure.

RedZone Campus

campusguard.redzonecampus.workers.dev

A real-time campus emergency alert system developed for the Beyond the Classroom Hackathon 2026. Features multi-role access for students, staff, and security with live map integration.

SERVICES I OFFER

- Business landing pages and company websites
- Restaurant, store and e-commerce front-ends
- Portfolio and personal brand websites
- Website redesign and UI refresh
- Single-page and multi-page web applications
- Responsive, mobile-first web design

BACKGROUND

Self-Taught Developer

Hands-on projects, online learning and real client work

All my skills have been built through consistent practice, online resources, and real-world projects. I learn fast, adapt quickly, and always focus on delivering quality work that clients are proud to have representing their business.
